

NORDLOG 2022 Doctoral Day

The purpose of the Doctoral Day is to enable participants to gain knowledge, exchange insights and to network with senior researchers and fellow PhD students with different backgrounds.

NORDLOG doctoral day is organized as a full day event on the June 8th 2022, 9.15-17.00. It will take place in the main campus, building Veröld-Hús Vigdísar, University of Iceland, Brynjólfsgötu 1, 107, Reykjavik. The day is organized around three themes: a) Rigor, relevance or novelty; b) Publishing guidelines for PhD students; and c) Experiential learning.

Agenda :

9.15 Welcome and introduction – Associate Professor Violeta Roso, Chalmers University of Technology.

9.30 Rigor, relevance or novelty – Professor Chee Yew Wong, Leeds University

10.30 Coffee break

11.00 PhD students' group work on rigor, relevance, or novelty.

12.15 Lunch break on site.

13.30 Publishing guidelines for PhD students - Associate Professor Violeta Roso, Chalmers University of Technology.

14.30 Coffee break

15.00 Experiential learning – Associate Professor Dawn Russell, University of North Florida)

16.30 Concluding remarks.